

Effective Security Solutions

The technology available to protect your business against crime is now more effective than it has ever been. Significant advances over the last decade mean that blurred imagery, unwanted activations and opportunist burglary should all be problems of the past.

At TecservUK we pride ourselves in providing a market leading range of excellent quality security solutions which keep up with the needs of today's businesses.

Modern CCTV

We are now able to capture sharp images day and night; using CCTV cameras which operate effectively even in poorly lit areas. These images are then stored on a computer hard disc, thus avoiding the videotape deterioration problems previously seen.

Constant Surveillance

CCTV is most effective when it is linked to a remote monitoring service as an immediate response often means damage is limited and, in some cases, the intruder detained. Our increasingly popular offsite monitoring system can track activity using remote control cameras, sound a warning if required and simultaneously send real time images to your security force or to a permanently manned Alarm Receiving Centre.

Intruder Alarms without false alarm annoyance

Security alarms are a proven deterrent, but only if they work correctly. Our security alarms use reliable technology, are installed by our specialist engineers and regularly maintained all of which significantly reduces the risk and inconvenience of unwanted activations.

Once activated by an intruder, your alarm signal is sent via a secure BT network (Redcare) to a permanently manned Alarm Receiving Centre who will call the police and your keyholders. A GSM Radio wire free digital signal is also sent, ensuring your premises are still protected even if the telephone lines have been cut.

Secure access to buildings

Instances of unauthorised individuals entering and stealing from business premises during normal working hours are on the increase. Access control systems are an effective way of protecting against these opportunistic criminals, as well as making staff feel more secure. Our range includes simple video door entry systems right up to sophisticated fingerprint activated solutions.

Why Choose TecservUK?

- We comply with police and insurer requirements
- We specialise in both fire and security protection. We are experienced at balancing the opposing needs of these two crucial areas.
- We are dedicated to protecting your people, processes and property.
- Our customers stay with us – which speaks for itself.

Service backed by Knowledge

